

OLD JACK CANNON, THIEF, CAUGHT IN ASTOR HOUSE

More Than 70 Years Old, He Put Up Fight
When Apprehended—Trying to Rob Guests.

"Old Jack Cannon," a notorious thief, supposed by the detectives of this city to have died long ago, came to life last night in a room in the old Astor House, where he attempted to rob three sleeping men. He awakened them, and although he is seventy years of age and the three he had selected as victims are gigantic seamen, he put up a terrific fight with the aid of a seven-inch dagger. But for the strength of the three seafaring guests he would have made his escape.

When he found that there was no chance of getting away he showed his age in an exaggerated manner. When taken to Police Headquarters to be lined up for the inspection of the Central Office men he was unknown. None of the veterans could place him. "His face is familiar to me," said Inspector McLaughlin. "He's an old vag and has recently shaved off a heavy beard. I'll locate him after a bit."

And he did. The old man admitted that he was Cannon, who has been robbing jewelry stores and hotel guests for years, and has served many terms in prison. Inspector McLaughlin ordered him sent to Central Street Police Court, where Magistrate Moss remanded him to the Tombs for forty-eight hours.

Three entered the Astor House late last night a man who seemed bent with age. His hair was snow white, and there were lines about his clean-shaven face that indicated age. His hand seemed to tremble when he wrote on the register:

"Bernard G. Stewart, Scranton, Pa." The little old man was assigned to room No. 32, on the third floor. He went to his room at once.

Shortly after midnight three big men entered the hotel. All of them were men of the sea—Capt. Lund, his first mate, M. F. Hoxe, and his second mate, N. F. Hoxe. The Captain explained to the clerk that their ship was put out from Philadelphia to-day for Copenhagen, and then he added:

"Mr. mates and I must be up with the sun. Give us one room and two big beds."

The three big seamen were assigned to room No. 324, on the third floor. They were no sooner in bed than they were all snoring.

Shortly before daylight Capt. Lund was awakened by a noise in the room. By a dim light shining through the window from the street lamp he saw a man standing over his clothes, and there was the click of money and rattle of keys.

Caught in Guests' Room. The seamen had not gone to the hotel without quite a sum of money, and the captain at once thought that he was being robbed. He leaped over from the bed without making a noise and turned on the electric light switch. As he did this he sprang from his bed and grappled with a small man with a nasty black mustache. The little man was in his stocking feet and without coat or vest.

The struggle was short and sharp, and the big seaman was hurled to a corner of the room quicker than he can tell about it. His two companions were quickly on their feet and the three seamen followed the little man into the hallway. They closed in on him, but he fought them back. He was an expert boxer and wrestler all in one.

The noise of the fight brought the clerks and attendants of the hotel to the third floor and they formed a cordon about the little man. Then it was that he whipped a dirk from a sheath in his pocket and stabbed with it and cut circles in the air, defying the men to come near.

One of the big seamen slipped behind the little man when he ventured too far from his corner, and a hard fist sent him sprawling to the floor. The three seamen were upon him as one man. One of them tried to hold the dirk arm, but the little man squirmed like a snake. Then came Policeman Junter, and with his club he beat the dirk from the man's hand. Other policemen came

EXPERT FEES BARRED IN TERRANOVA CASE.

Former Justice Palmieri's Net Return Allowed by State for Defending Girl Is $35.

Former Justice John Palmieri, who successfully defended Josephine Terranova in her trial for killing her aunt, was allowed the legal fee set aside by the State in cases of destitute defendants—$300—and $5 additional for actual expenses, by Justice Scott to-day.

He put in a claim for $310 paid to insanity experts, but it was not allowed. For services lasting one month, two weeks in preparation and two weeks in court in behalf of Josephine Terranova, Judge Palmieri secures a net cash return of $35. He says he went into the case to help the girl and would have spent $10,000 if necessary to prove her innocence.

The experts employed by Judge Palmieri were extremely reasonable in their charges. He paid Dr. L. Pierce Clark $150, Dr. Grace Hammond $150, Dr. Burton D. Evans $150, Dr. Henry Tyson $50 and Dr. Kinman B. Page $10. District Attorney Jerome has not filed any statement showing how much money the trial cost the County of New York.

Another New Cigar Sensation

With the adoption of this "A" (Triangle A) merit-mark cigar values were revolutionized. Cigars that had always been worth 10c. and 3 for 25c. were produced and sold at 4 for 25c. and 5c. —the New Continental Bouquet, a 10c. value now sold at 4 for 25c., and the New Crema Victoria, a 3-for-20c. quality for 5c., being prominent examples of what has been accomplished.

And now we offer one of the most interesting results of the new scientific methods,

Smokettes

A 5c. Cigar for 3c.

—the same grade of cigar in every respect—size, quality and workmanship, as has always been sold for 5c. straight. And "Smokettes" is as good a cigar, or even better, than any 5c. cigar now made by any other manufacturer.

"Smokettes" are the realization of our ambition to produce for 3 cents a cigar as good as, or better than, the standard 5-cent cigar.

This we have accomplished in "Smokettes" through the application of our new improved methods—conclusive proof of the merit of the American Cigar Company's new and exclusive processes of tobacco culture and cigar manufacture.

Compare "Smokettes" with any 5c. cigar made by any other than "A" methods of manufacture—smoke it critically. Don't be too proud to pay 3c. for the same cigar that's always cost you 5c. It's the quality you want—and in "Smokettes" you get double smoking value.
